Education is the lifeblood of all mankind. It is a path to self-thought and self-preservation. It can come through experience or through formal learning. In either form, however, it is necessary for the survival of every individual.

To thee, Education, we dedicate this journal of experience and learning in hopes that man will always remember your importance to him.

Administration

Dr. Earle T. Hawkins, President

President Hawkins has been the guiding spirit of Towson State Teachers College for many years. Under his guidance, direction, and leadership the college has expanded and renovated its facilities and curriculum. Dr. Hawkins has been a teacher, administrator, and friend to all Towson students.

Dean Orielle Murphy

Both Dean Murphy and Dean Browne deal with the interest of the students of Towson State Teachers College. Dean Browne has the task of planning, executing, adapting, and fulfilling the needs of the students. Dean Murphy shares the problems of Townsonites and helps them discover a workable solution.

Dean Orielle Murphy, Dean of Students ever busy with the problems of students.

Dean Kenneth Browne

Dean Kenneth Browne, Dean of Instructions, seems happy as he looks over the new course of study.

Rebecca Tansil
Director of Admissions

Edward Johnston
Director of Admissions

Dr. Tansil and Mr. Johnston discuss the problems of over-enrollment and crowded conditions as they look over an application for admission.

Hazel Bowman
Registrar

Karl Moser
Business Manager

Every student at Towson has at one time or another had dealings with the Admissions, Business, or Registrar's Office. With the help of the Admissions Office the incoming student is tested and guided to insure a successful future in college.

After enrollment the student will inevitably come in contact with the Business Office. Every financial matter from parking fines to yearly tuition is handled by this office.

The Registrar and her staff perform all of the duties of scheduling courses and recording the individual academic records. No Towsonite can do without the services of the Administration.

The new Lida Lee Hall, the campus elementary school, was dedicated this year on September 29.

The school is equipped with the latest in teaching materials and conveniences including combination blackboards, bulletin boards, a special science room, an art room, and natural lighting via skylights. There is also a spacious auditorium, a cafeteria, and a large playroom furnished with portable equipment.

The presence of the elementary school on campus gives the college students an opportunity to see elementary school students at work under excellent conditions.

Faces Familiar

Frances Gill, Dean Brown's efficient secretary, makes appointments for Towsonites who wish to discuss their academic problems with the Dean of Instruction. She handles all summer school applications and transcripts.

Kathryn Gordon, Dean Murphy's capable secretary, issues requisitions, types bulletins, and still has time to give each student a friendly greeting. Her usual welcome, "Have a seat. Dean Murphy will be with you in a little while."

Junior Towsonites

Miss Patricia Faber and Mrs. Elizabeth Owings are surrounded by applications from high school seniors.

Mrs. Kelley spends half the morning sorting mail.

The secretaries at the admissions office handle the applications of prospective Towson students. Each year they receive many more applications as Towson's fame as a teachers' college is spread. However, competition is keen and only the best are selected.

Mrs. Kelley, Towson's Postmistress, with her cheery smile and friendly personality, is always on hand to sell stamps, weigh packages and insert letters to Towson students. She handles U. S. Postage, student messages, and, oh, that free and inexpensive material!

Organizations

Pat Cribbs explains layout instructions to Sue Parkhurst and Becky Sterling.

Skip Johns explains his idea for a picture to Phyllis Lonegro, Linda Beck, and Sophia Maggelakis.

Linda, Tower Echoes able art editor, did all of the art work included in the book. Last year Linda did the art work for the 1960 yearbook and received the award for outstanding art work. The staff is sure she will receive the award again this year.

Tower Echoes

Jo Ann Mikanowicz aids two of the freshman staff with the Glen Players' page.

Paul and Phyllis discuss the copy for page 80.

Fred Cogswell jots down a few notes as he arranges the picture schedule.

Gabrielle Lyter, editor-in-chief of the 1961 Tower Echoes, checks a finished page with the layout dummy.

The Senior Staff, M. Taylor, A. Elliott, M. Spade, N. Streeks, P. Granger, E. Benjamin, and H. Nitzberg, pause to look at some of the activities pictures.

The TOWER LIGHT, is the official student publication of State Teachers College at Towson, Maryland.

Work day! Members of the Tower Light Features staff proofread, type, and rewrite copy for the pending deadline.

Light

The Tower Light with Fawn Wilson as the editor-in-chief worked with an increased staff this year. The paper added several new columns, Martello Gaudeamers, The Seven Lively Arts, and Under The Bench which seemed to create enthusiasm and interest.

The Tower Light is the official newspaper of the Towson Students and is published weekly by members from each class. A special April Fool issue was published this year that surprised and shocked the unsuspecting student body.

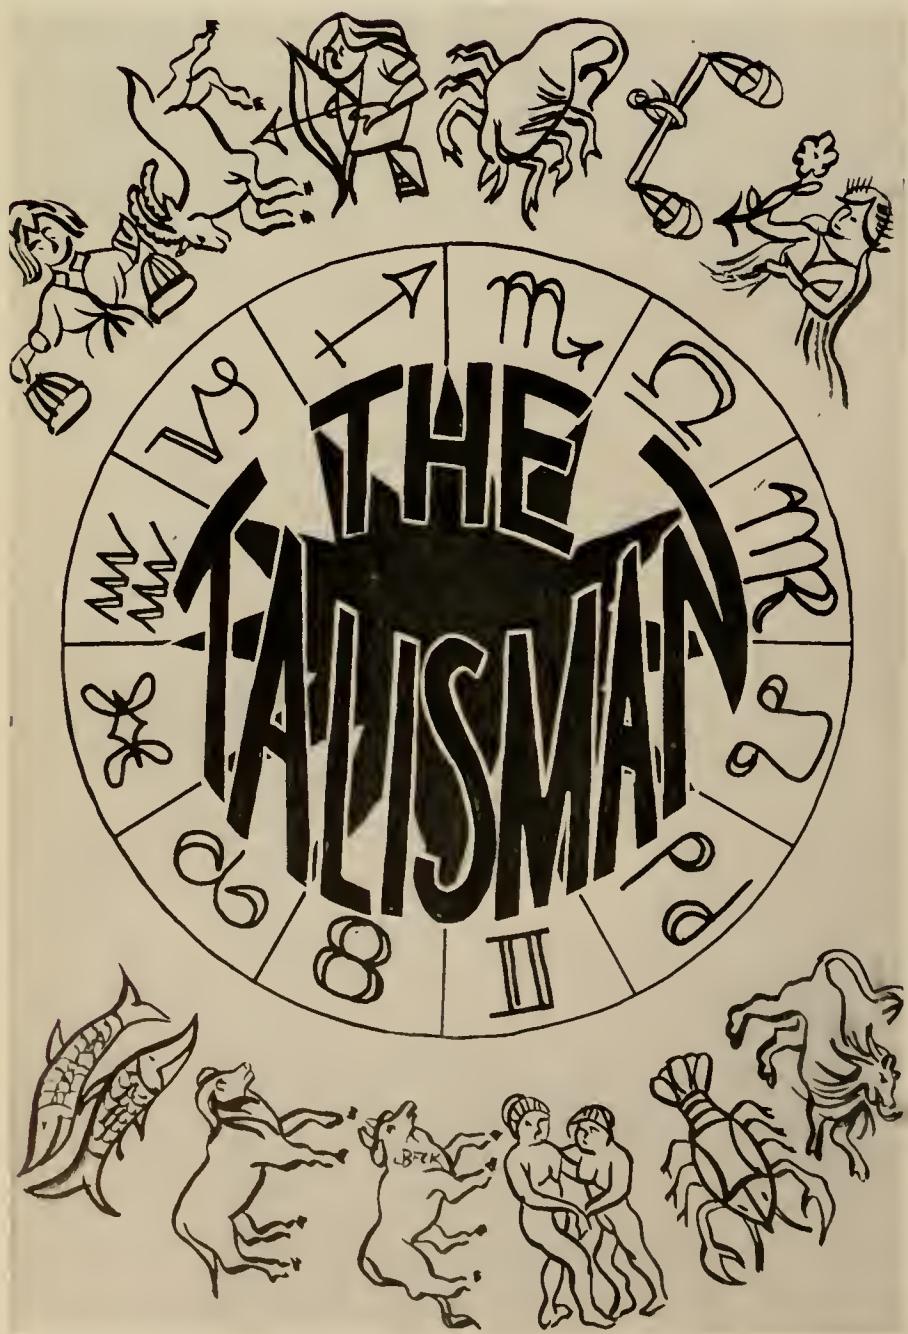

Deborah Mack, News editor, is pointing to an important notice containing deadline dates. Her staff also seems to be hard at work on concentration.

The sports staff headed by Don Masken has that contented look after another job well done.

B. Troike, L. Friedlander. Standing (l.-r.)—M.
Lemen, S. McDonald, Dr. Lewis, D. Coard.

Under the able direction of Mrs. Bettie Troike, the "Towers" under its new name of "The Talisman" emerged as a brilliant success.

"The Talisman" is published annually to give students at Towson a chance to submit pieces of creative writing to be printed. This gives the other students a chance to see what literary talent can be found on our campus.

Governing

The S.G.A. is the chief governing body on the Towson campus. It consists of one legislative body, the Student Senate. Members of the Senate include the Executive Committee and the S.G.A. representatives elected by their respective organizations and classes. Meetings are held on alternate Thursdays.

Milton Saulsbury was elected by the entire student body as president for the 1960-61 term.

Student Government Association

Susan Munaker was the choice of the student body for S.G.A. vice-president. Sue looks quite excited about her activities.

The treasurer for the 1960-61 term had lots of money problems but Brenda Sherrer looks rather happy at her calculator and the figures on the paper.

Joan Lewis and Doris Stepp were rather busy secretaries when this picture was snapped. Joan took care of correspondence while Doris recorded the happenings of the meetings.

Social Chairman Barbara Tait and one of the members at large, Donald Graham, share the S.G.A. business message.

All eyes are focused on Sue Munaker who seems to have lost something. From left to right: J. Asher, P. Adams, J. Glass, B. Sherrer, J. Tallman, D. Stepp, M. Saulsbury.

Residence

All resident women are members of the Woman's Resident Student Association. The chief aims of this organization are: furthering the students' sense of honor and personal responsibility, and maintaining high standards of living. The over-all governing body is the Women's Residence Council. It is responsible for the maintenance and operation of a democratic form of government in all residence halls.

The Prettyman House Council is charged with seeing that a democratic form of government is maintained in the hall. It is also responsible for the social activities of the hall.

Newell-Richmond House Council: Bottom Row (l. to r.)—L. Crocker, J. Tracey, J. Lewis—President, I. Wimmer, S. Fallowfield. Second Row—C. Wilhelm, E. Alford, J. Dowdy, J. Asher, L. Wilder, K. Quinn.

It is the purpose of the Newell-Richmond House Council to carry out the social activities for the women living in the hall, to provide and maintain service equipment, to have monthly fire drills, and to follow the direction of the Women's Residence Council.

Freshman Advisory Council

The Freshman Advisory Council is an organization whose sole purpose is to aid new students in becoming acquainted with college life. For many of the new students it will be their first experience in making decisions, arranging their time for college activities and building good study habits.

The Freshman Orientation Program is designed by the FAC to answer all questions that arise from incoming students concerning clubs and organizations, social functions, scholastic problems, and a comprehensive view of life in general at Towson.

Members of the organization are selected on the basis of their high academic standards and social competency, by the members of the preceding year. They are selected in February and serve for one year.

Κ Δ Π

The purpose of Kappa Delta Phi is to encourage the future teachers and educators of Towson State Teachers College to achieve high scholastic records and high professional standards, so as to become life-long members in a national educational fraternity.

Mrs. Beverly Crook, Alumni secretary, sorts and selects all of the news that is handled by the News Letter, the paper published for the Towson Alumni.

The Alumni Association provides graduates with the news of friends, classmates and school activities. The Association, headed by Q. Thompson, sponsors a Homecoming Day in the fall, May Day, and Alumni Day in June. Reunion, social and business meetings are also on the agenda of this very active organization.

Alumni Association

The Glen Players Officers are as follows: Standing—R. Maletti, social chairman; R. Gwynn, senator; M. Belsinger, treasurer. Sitting, from left to right—M. Smith, corresponding secretary; B. Rakes, vice-president; R. Rheb, president; M. Hughes, recording secretary; P. Pulkka, parliamentarian and historian.

The group of students pictured above find time out of a busy scholastic schedule to develop their interests and talents. There are endless hours of rehearsing and planning devoted to the tremendous productions presented by this organization to the student body.

The Glen Players were a busy crew planning and rehearsing for Summer and Smoke. These particular scenes were photographed during a busy and hectic dress rehearsal.

Linda Beck, Otts Lampus, and Irene Shephard, three members of the cast, pose as the camera captured the setting of the show.

Jonee Monroe looks comfortable in this rehearsal scene from First Lady the Glen Players fall production. Many hours of hard work go into the final polished production.

Glee Club

The Glee Club, the largest musical organization on the campus, is a chorus of men and women students. It engages in choral work of various types and performs at numerous functions on and off campus under the direction of Miss Emma Weyforth. The Glee Club presented a special arrangement during the winter season and also performed at the annual Christmas Assembly. They also presented the music for the graduation exercise.

Men's Chorus

The Men's Chorus of Towson State Teachers is something to be proud of. The highlight of many of our musical programs has been the voices of the Men's Chorus. This year the chorus went on tour entertaining at junior colleges and high schools in Montgomery, Prince George, and St. Mary's counties. Together with the Noteables, this group is indeed an excellent representation of our college.

The Noteables: (top-bottom)—D. Evans, D. Disharoon, D. Heckner, H. Harple, P. Machin, C. Bochau, P. Eisenhardt.

Hostess Club

Members of the Hostess Club serve the college on special occasions and upon request. Guest speakers are invited and demonstrations are given at the monthly meetings to aid the members in becoming better hostesses. The club meets the second Tuesday in every month in the cafeteria. Each year in the spring the club presents its annual fashion show. Towson girls are transformed into models with the beautiful clothes loaned to the school by the leading department stores in Baltimore.

Each year at Christmas time the Hostess Club sponsors a "how to decorate" demonstration. Mr. Harris is using flowers to add beauty.

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship

Organized in 1948, the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship has striven to strengthen the spiritual lives of its members by the study of the Holy Scriptures and helping others to understand Jesus as their personal Savior.

Membership is open to all students at Towson. Meetings are held at the noon hour, during free periods, and on Thursday evenings. The group works with the other Inter-Varsity clubs on the nearby college campuses.

Jewish Students' Association

The purpose of the Jewish Students' Association is the promotion of participation by the Jewish students of Towson in religious, cultural, inter-faith, social and school service activities of the college community.

Although the team didn't win all their meets, they made an excellent showing.

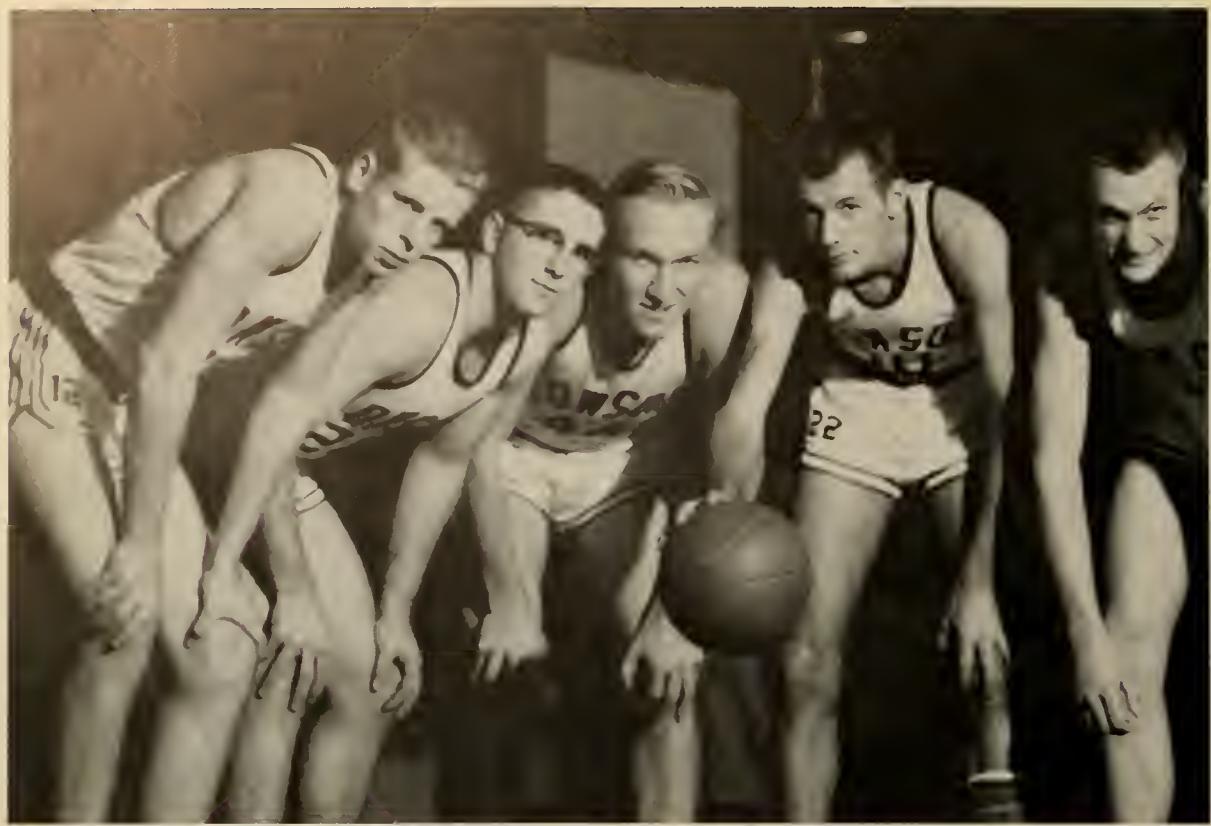

The 1960 Towson Soccer team plays a rough and tough game against the Lynchburg Hornets at Homecoming. They finally won the game, 4-3.

This year the team placed two outstanding athletes on the All-Maryland Team. Ed Lorenz and Ed. Humm were listed as outstanding players.

Under the W.A.A., an elective system is organized to give every student an opportunity to engage in the sports which she will enjoy. Among the electives offered are: hockey, soccer, tennis, archery, basketball, badminton, lacrosse, bowling, volleyball, and softball.

W.A.A.

The W.A.A. sponsors basketball for all Towson girls. There are intramural games between dorms and then a Towson team is chosen to participate against other colleges.

The above picture shows the action found in girls' basketball. Pat Ennis has the ball; will she make the basket?

Pat Ennis goes up and shoots. Two more points for the Towson varsity.

Somewhere in outer space there is a basketball that was passed by the Towson varsity.

The reserves watch the exciting game. Although they are on the bench now, they will have their turn and play.

The girls fight for possession of the ball. The ref. is there to check and call any play that is out of order.

The Towson first team is composed of P. Ennis, M. Duvall, C. Ennis, M. Mitchel, M. Schreilier, and L. Alder.

The Towson students who bowl use the Stoneleigh Bowling Alleys. A moment of hope, despair, and concentration is frozen in the picture above.

The bowling elective is open to both women and men at Towson. For the small sum of one dollar you may bowl two games a week for seven weeks. Instructions are given to beginners and encouragement is given to those who know how to bowl but somehow never break a hundred.

Chris Kofskey delivers a ball that is sure to bring a strike.

Again Gay Lyter shows a great deal of hope that her ball will hit the pins in the pocket and bring home a spare.

The couple above display a variation of the Cha-Cha-Cha. This picture was taken at the social dance elective.

Phyllis Lonegro and John Schuerholz practice to make their dance perfect before they demonstrate for the entire social dance elective.

Chris Kokskey comes through with another mark. Notice her follow through. We are sure this is the reason.

Many different electives were open to both men and women at Towson. One of them was a social dance held every Tuesday during the winter months in the barracks. Over fifty Towsonites participated in this elective and it's told that everyone had a good time under the direction of Miss Graeser.

Members of the swimming elective wait for their instructions.

How did I do that time?

The swimming elective lasted for three of the four 9-week elective periods. A course in life saving was offered and several girls took it. The course lasted for the entire 27 weeks. Courses were also offered for the rank beginner and the very advanced swimmer.

The girls learn to dive off the side before they use the board.

Brenda Sherrill demonstrates a running front dive.

This is how it should be done.

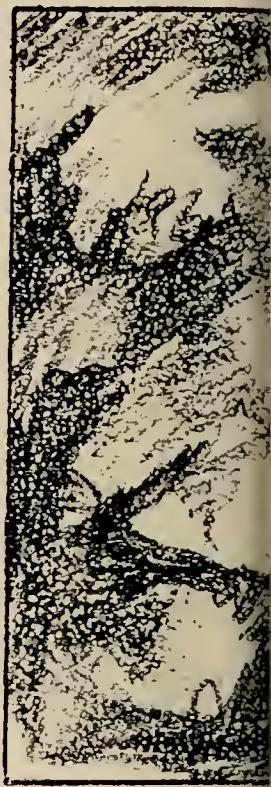

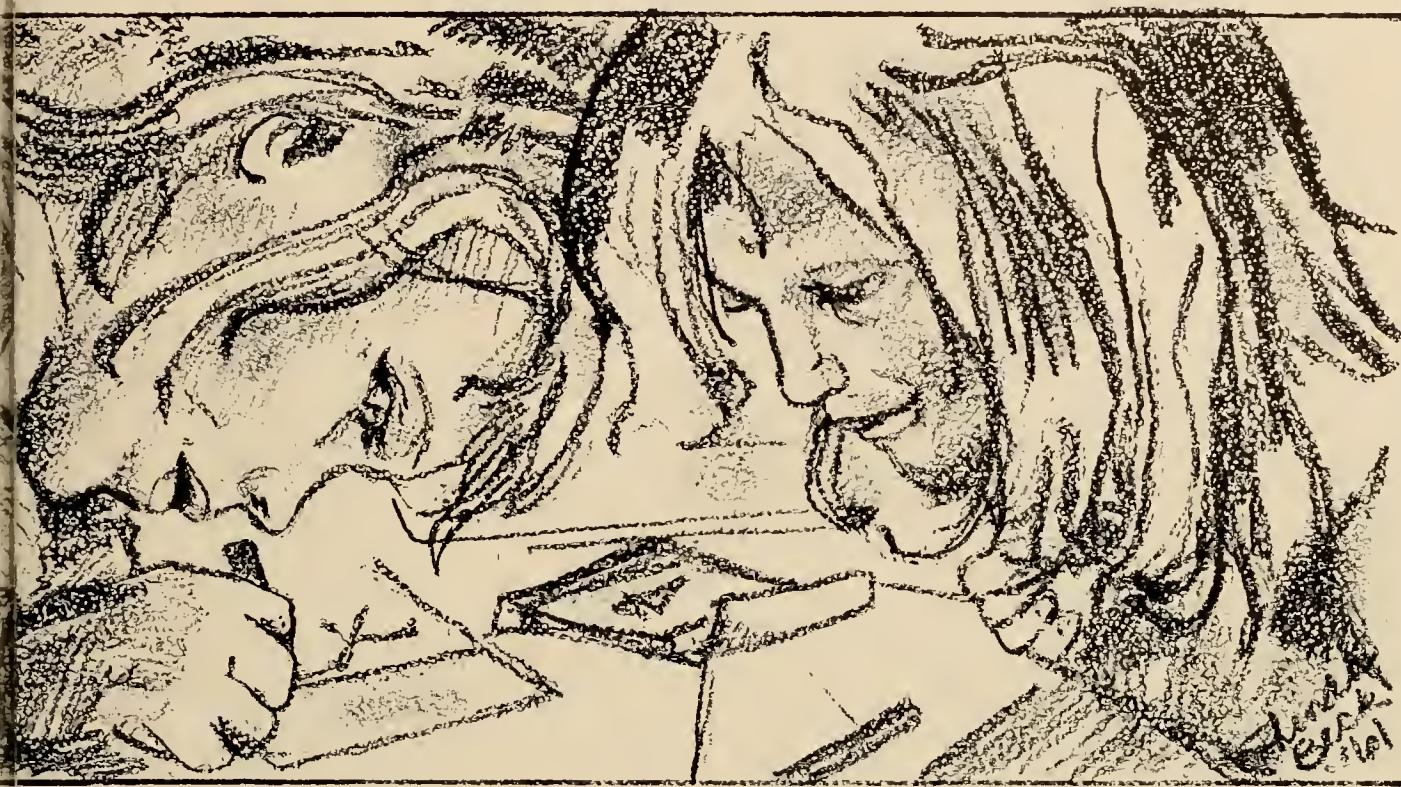

Some of the exercises encountered in tumbling are rather awkward.

In the spring, the women's physical education classes are held out of doors. Softball is one of the games most commonly played and enjoyed. However, if the weather is bad, the classes meet inside for tumbling or volleyball.

Marge Leppo hits a hard ball into the field.

Classes

Freshman Class of 1964

This year ushered in a new class to Towson, the Class of 1964. The Freshmen were introduced to the campus during Freshman Week sponsored by the F.A.C. Parties, dances, and just plain old social get togethers were on the schedule of the busy Freshmen.

Nicholas Kolb was elected president and under his guidance the class worked together to plan a float that was "out of this world" for the annual homecoming parade.

The class officers seated from right to left are: J. Cooper, J. Mackert, J. Duffy, J. Whitcraft, W. Reuling, B. Gordon, J. Gromberg.

Lady Luck looks with awe as she thinks of the Freshmen that will be absent when the class meets four years from now.

Bob reads an important announcement as the other active class members listen. Class meetings are held on alternate Thursdays at two P.M.

Sophomore Chuck Croner raises his hand to be recognized. This procedure will provide the Class of 1963 with ideas for their future events. Each class presents a play and sponsors a dance during the year. The sophomore production was raved as a success by all who attended.

As Sophomores, they have experienced one year of academic and social education. Looking into the future, half of their college career still lies ahead. Plans must be made and this is exactly what is being done at the class meeting pictured.

Captured in picture is the procedure of the Junior Class meeting. Don Koester seems willing to share his opinion with the other members assembled to guide their class.

The class of '62 is proud to display its emblem throughout the school. This particular copy of the emblem may be admired by all in the student center. Many members of the class display the emblem on blazers or sweaters. The colors which are proudly worn by those of '62 are red and white. The beautiful colors of this emblem must be seen to be appreciated. The shield itself was designed by Linda Beck during her sophomore year. The class emblem was made available to all its members that same year.

Seniors

Mr. Robert W. Abendroth

Mr. "A." has been advisor and friend to the class of '61 for three highly successful years. We all feel that without his guidance the class would not have been half so successful. It will be hard for any one of the seniors to forget his cheerful smile and "helping hand" in the years to come.

Whether the class was putting on an assembly, constructing a float, planning a dance or jam session, or working on a special project, Mr. "A." was always on hand with sleeves rolled up ready to pitch in and help. Credit must also be given to Mrs. "A." and the boys who often gave up their plans so that Mr. "A." could be with the class.

We, the Seniors, know that Mr. Abendroth will continue to give his "all" for the students of Towson, and we wish him success in all that he may endeavor.

Activities

These two use their time wisely while waiting to pre-register.

Registration

Who said this was easy?

But I have lunch hours three days a week!

Twice a year Towson students have the privilege of taking part in that old tradition of pre-registration. At the crack of dawn, one can see the enthusiastic ones lining up outside the gymnasium door waiting to be let in. Every student goes in with the perfect schedule and comes out with it slightly revised. Each person attempts to get permit slips for those highly desired required courses first, waiting in lines which often cover half the gym floor. In the end, however, everyone gets some sort of schedule worked out.

There are many adjustments to be made before the semester is very old.

Some people pick the library to work on their schedules.

Complications may arise during and after registration, but the Registrar's Office is ready to make all reasonable adjustments.

at Towson

Well now, we must have you listed. Are you sure you go to Towson?

Seniors Roberta Collector and Marta Branch instruct Juniors Sophia Maggelakis, Phyllis Lonegro, and Chris Kofskey in housing procedures at Prettyman Hall.

Fayla Lancaster, Judy Dowdy, and Ellen Alford begin the process of moving into their new home for the next nine months.

After weeks of packing the necessities for the coming school year, the resident students enter into Towson's dorm life. Many weeks of preparation are put into this day which ends none too soon.

Being Sophomores enables Fayla, Judy and Ellen to move in much faster than last year.

Jo Ann Mikanowicz reminds Sue Austin that there is a time limit on phone calls.

Beverly Switzer and Betty Stewart are met with the prospect of the first duty, which will be followed by many more.

Spook Week

This lovely lowly spook looks too pleased with herself.

What a beautiful rose this fashionable Towsonite holds.

My wonderful spookmaster made sure I wouldn't catch cold on that brisk October night!

Spook Week is a very active week for the Freshmen who live in the Residence Halls. The whole week is brought to a close with Spook Night. This is the night when the Freshmen are initiated officially into dorm life. Procedures vary from year to year but they are always designed to keep everybody amused. Many students will remember the activities of this week and laugh months later. Some will remember with great amusement the hilarious costumes which they wore on Spook Night, thanks to the honorable Spookmasters. Others will laugh or may turn a pale shade of red when they remember their great performances in the student center.

pook Week

Carry out these orders exactly as they appear here or beware of me on Spook Night!!

I didn't expect to find my door looking like this! When I went to sleep last night it was perfectly okay! Who was my night visitor?

The foyer is thoroughly cleaned on Saturday morning. These girls were told to "shine those windows carefully."

My Spookmaster certainly has lots of dirty clothes. I'll probably be here all year.

Her Majesty, the Queen!

Miss Cindy Huggins reigned over Towson's Homecoming activities this year. She began her reign at a luncheon which was held in her honor. Miss Huggins then traveled through the Towson area on a specially-made float which was provided by the Senior Class. Upon her arrival on the soccer field, she was crowned by the President of the Alumni Association, Mr. Quinton D. Thompson. Though rain was falling, nothing could dampen the spirits of the Towson rooters, and Miss Huggins cheerfully watched the game with her escort, Mr. Chuck Cummings.

Wet, but happy.

The Queen and Her Court: Miss Jane Chiles, Miss Sue Chiles, Miss Phyllis Balzer, Miss Cindy Huggins, Miss Wanda McGee, Miss Judy Simpson, Miss Mary Alice Ball.

Homecoming wouldn't be the same without food and floats. Another must is a soccer game. This year the Knights, inspired by Miss Huggins' presence, overcame the Lynchburg Hornets in a 4-3 victory.

Was that the main event?

Every year the Sweetheart Dance is sponsored by the Student Government Association and is usually held off campus at the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore.

The music for the gala affair was supplied by the Glenn Miller Orchestra under the direction of Ray McKinley. Such memorable tunes as In The Mood, Tuxedo Junction, and Moonlight Serenade were played.

To highlight the evening the Sweetheart Couple, Miss Carolyn Lyle and Mr. Richard Evans, was chosen. The other couples that competed were: Miss Virginia Warfel and Mr. Donald Graham, Miss Karen Jorgensen and Mr. David Stockman, Miss Sharie Lacey and Mr. George Goudy, and Mrs. Patricia Smith and Mr. Barry Smith.

Glenn Miller's Orchestra provided dreamy music for Towson's Annual Sweetheart Dance.

Girls clad in lovely gowns met and exchanged good wishes and friendly greetings.

A happy group of students seem to be enjoying the music and the atmosphere.

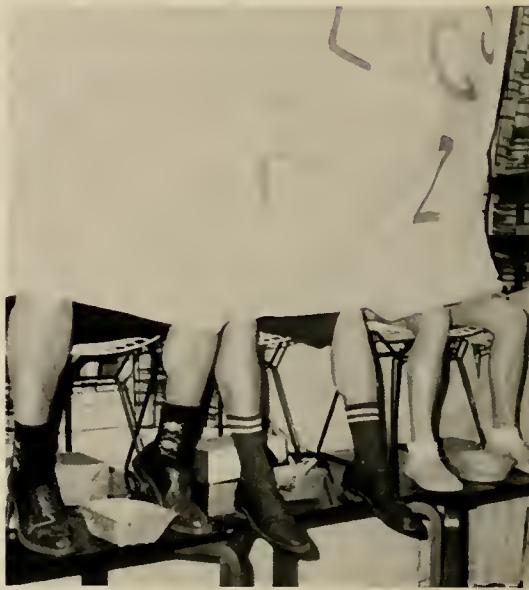

Visitors from India added excitement to W.S.U. activities.

Beneath the costumes you will discover Towsonites.

One week each year is set aside by the students at Towson to present money making activities. All of the proceeds from the 1961 W.U.S. week activities were to be donated to India and the needy.

During the week long activities there was a date auction, a penny walk, an ugly man contest, a faculty auction, and various speakers. A small admission charge was made and Towson donated nearly seven hundred dollars to the cause. The highlight of the week was the jam session and carnival which provided a good time for all who attended.

The May Queen and her court donned dresses and heels to pose for this informal shot.

Miss Susan Chiles was crowned Queen of the May for 1961.

The court was composed of: Miss Nancy Streeks, Miss Barbara Tait, Miss Sue Munaker, Mrs. Patricia Henry Harmon, Miss Brenda Sherrer, Miss Jane Chiles, Miss Diane Edgell, Miss Doris Stepp, Miss Madelon Wilhelm, Miss Janet Gregory, and Miss Marianne Faasen.

The Queen and her court pose on the lawn of Prettyman Hall.

Rain hampered the annual May Day festivities and all activities had to be moved indoors.

The children from Lida Lee Tall School participated in the ceremony by dropping rose petals before Her Majesty the Queen.

The court and their dates remained in formal attire throughout the ceremonies of the day and the annual dance that followed at the Blue Crest North that night.

Although the weather was poor, spirits ran high at the annual May Day fair. Two future Towsonites enjoy a snow ball while other visitors buy pennants, popcorn, and balloons.

Popcorn and lemon sticks seem to be popular with these three lads.

The Glen Players, the college dramatic organization, offers an opportunity for those interested in all phases of dramatic production. Actors, those interested in backstage work and those just interested in the theatre can usually be found in the Glen Players' rooms at Towson.

The Student Union offers the student a place for recreation and relaxation. It also acts as a study hall, art gallery, and a showplace for ultra-modern furnishings. Some people never come here, others frequent it occasionally, and still others find it loaded with magnetic appeal.

Did you say 5 hearts? J. Schlee, B. Busch, J. Glaser, and R. Davis enjoy a friendly game of cards.

Sometimes life is just plain hard to take, and the Student Union is a good place to come and reflect upon it. Here, in a quiet corner, one can talk with friends or catch up on that last bit of reading before class.

A quiet (?) corner.

All paths lead from the Student Union. Even the faculty can be seen making their way to class via coffee at the Snack Bar.

Goodies of all brand names are kept on hand to till the vacuum created by study.

Students eat, study, talk, and generally socialize in the main eating room of the Student Union Building.

"Miss Nancy" keeps her records straight.

In the Student Union proper, "Miss Nancy" Walbeck, the daytime hostess of the Union, is always ready with a smile and a word of encouragement for discouraged students. "Miss Nancy" plays many roles including bridge partner, checker player, and housemother for the Day Students.

The Student Union also includes a book store run by Mrs. Sue Richardson. Under her able management, the store carries almost anything one needs from soap powder to pen points. The other people working in the store are always ready to help a student find something not in plain sight.

Mrs. Richardson figures out the monthly order.

The book store staff gets ready for a long day.

Every day at 10:55, the mad rush takes the typical Towsonite to the Post Office window and the individual mail box. News from home, other colleges, and commercial firms compose most of the correspondence. Towson students pause long enough to work the combination to unlock the "safe" and collect . . . "late library notices!"

Towsonites search their boxes for daily mail.

Money From Home . . .

Students come and go along the lower corridors.

From the look on the students' faces, the postman must have forgotten the air mail letters.

The "group" at Gus' releasing their emotions with singing, joking, and just having fun.

"To the table down at Morey's," (oops, we mean "Gus'.") Many hours and dollars are spent on extracurricular activities.

The life of college students leads them to many odd and interesting places. Gus' Carryout Shop which is located near the northeast edge of the campus is a favorite stomping ground for Towsonites. Subs and sandwiches of every style can be purchased. "Joe" and "Gus" greet everyone with a friendly, "Hi! What'll you have?"

A Place to Spend It

The Big Three, Gus, Little Gus, and Joe, greet all patrons with big smiles.

Jim Shank uses the library pamphlets to enrich his studies.

The Albert S. Cook Library is a haven for students. In the fall and spring, the library is air conditioned for the comfort of Towsonites. The chairs are just comfortable enough to let you relax and study. The library has a large selection of educational materials which are allowed to go out on loan for a four-week period. It also has an excellent reference section which is used constantly by the students for those numerous term papers and research projects.

Students enjoy the quiet relaxed atmosphere of the library.

The efficient staff at the Albert S. Cook Library checks records, and lends books.

A place of concentration for many Towsonites.

The Program and Special Events Committee is composed of both students and faculty who work together to plan activities for the entire student body. "The Arts, 1961" provided entertainment for an entire school week. The program featured the five arts, the dance, the theater, music, art and the cinema. The Baltimore Symphony Orchestra highlighted the week's activities. Mr. Peter Herman Adler conducted the Orchestra while Towsonites listened.

Tom Brennan gave Towsonites his opinion on the latest Broadway shows.

During February the Program and Special Events Committee sponsored "The Arts, 1961." Tom Brennan came to Towson and discussed the Current Broadway Season. He gave the Towsonites insight on the current trends in show business.

The Jose Limon Dance Company entertained the student body Monday night with modern interpretive dances.

To climax the week of activity, Alpha Psi Omega presented "The Red Shoes" a classic motion picture about the ballet. The picture was in color and was presented in Von Bokkelen Auditorium.

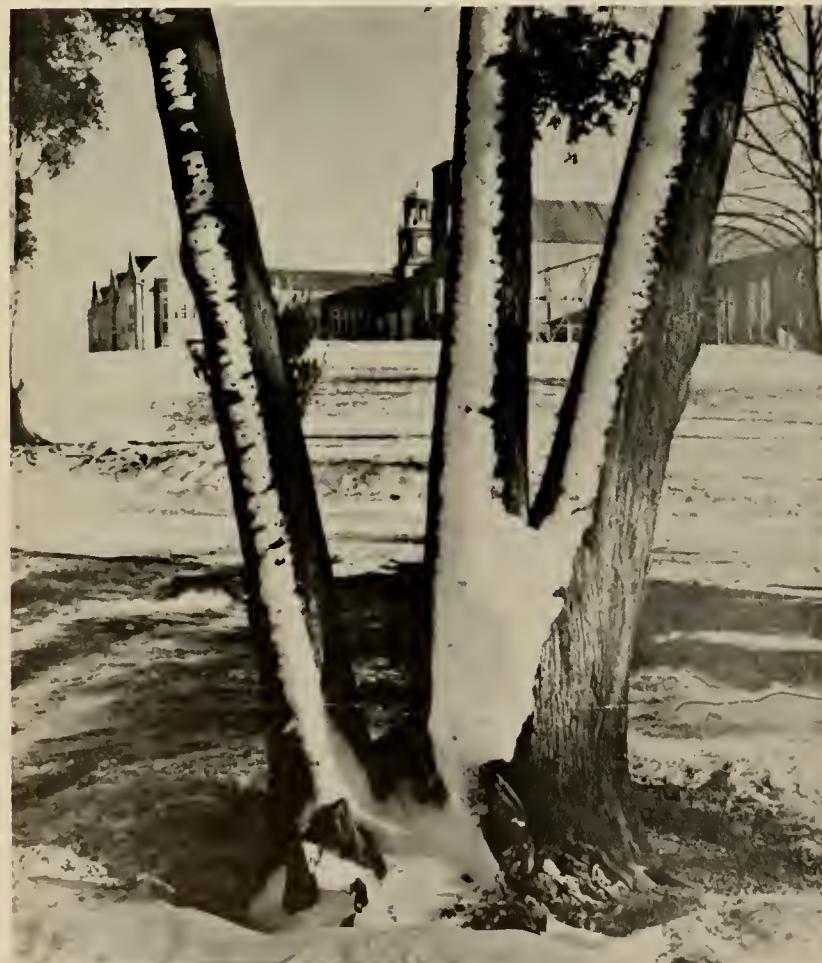

Three members of the Jose Limon Dance Company display perfect form for the audience that attended the performance.

Fall

Autumn brings with it brisk days and falling leaves. Color seems to spring into the trees. Beautiful golds, reds, and browns cover the country side. School begins with vigor and vim, and enthusiasm runs high.

Winter

Towson shared the snow filled winter with the rest of Maryland. Snow days were declared and school was closed. Folks bundled up like Eskimos.

Spring

After the long hard winter, Towsonites were glad to see spring creep in. The warm sun and green buds transformed the campus into a picture of paradise.

Students often visited the Glen in spring to sit and study in the beautiful surroundings. The Glen, which is a conservation project, housed many different species of plants.

The green campus is enhanced with cherry blossoms, dogwood, and tulips in the spring.

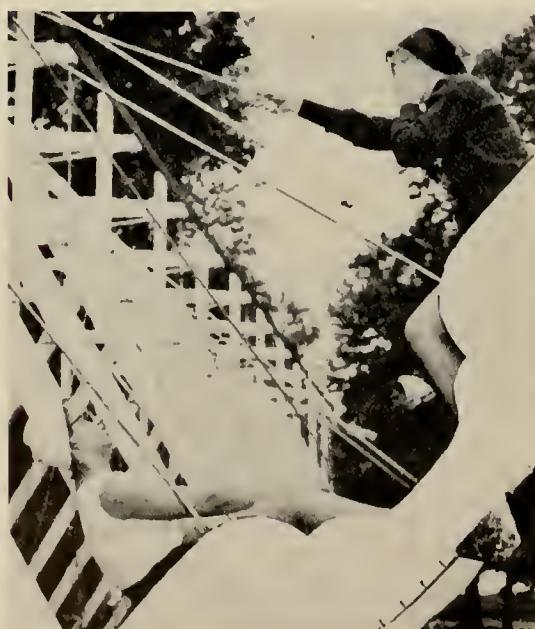

Jonee Monroe relaxes in the warm sunlight of the Glen.

The long pier leading from the boat to the beach is walked every year by eager students.

The swings are a main attraction at Tolchester Beach.

Every year after final exams Towson packs a lunch and spends the day at the beach. Again this year All-College Day was held at Tolchester.

The buses left Newell Hall at 8:15 and carried the students to Pier I on Pratt Street for the cruise down the bay.

Seniors Dine

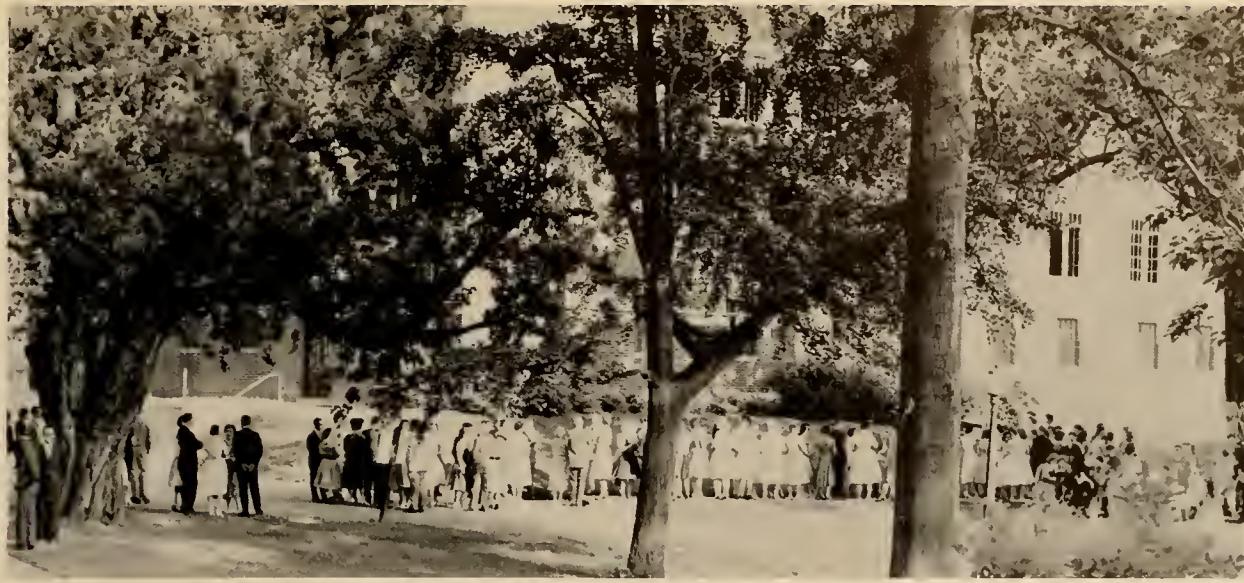

Every graduating senior was invited to the President's Dinner which was held on the Student Center Patio.

Senior students seem to be enjoying the food at the President's Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. "A." dine with the seniors at the banquet. Every year President Hawkins pays tribute to the seniors by providing a dinner in their honor.

Seniors line up as they wait to be seated on the patio.

The Student Center Patio was filled with colored lights and happy faces at the Senior Dinner. The Junior Class served the meal and provided the table decorations.

Seniors Express

Faculty and seniors thank Dr. and Mrs. Hawkins for a very fine meal and a wonderful evening.

The guests were allowed to keep the place cards and decorations.

Sue Chiles seems to be loaded down with her souvenirs. Some lucky seniors got to keep the flowers that adorned the tables.

Appreciation

The "Tower Belles" sang two selections.

Leo Orlando entertained the seniors with a trumpet solo.

The seniors entertained the faculty at a tea on Sunday, June 4.

Important guests and members of the Senior Executive Committee were seated at the head table at the Senior Prom and Banquet which was held at the Blue Crest North.

Graduating seniors and their dates turn their chairs to face the head table and to see the presentation of awards by the class president.

Friendly discussion took place during the banquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Abendroth show George Sparks and his date their "graduation" gift. The picture of the family was the Senior Gift to the Abendroth's. The picture which was a complete surprise to Mr. "A." includes the "Mrs." and their five boys.

"The food will be coming in a minute."

Harriett Needle and Sheldon Weinstock sample the "goodies" at the Prom.

Lucy Brocato and her date rest against a tropical oasis.

Seniors receive their last good wishes from Mrs. Tilghman.

The dreamy music put everyone in the mood to have a good time. Don and Carol and Roger and Paula seem to be enjoying themselves.

The Senior Prom highlighted the June Week festivities. Both the Prom and Banquet were held at the Blue Crest North.

The Ray Anthony Combo provided the music for the prom and the entertainment seemed pleasing to all who attended.

Continuous music was provided by the Ray Anthony Combo.

Couples swing and sway to the slow enchanting music.

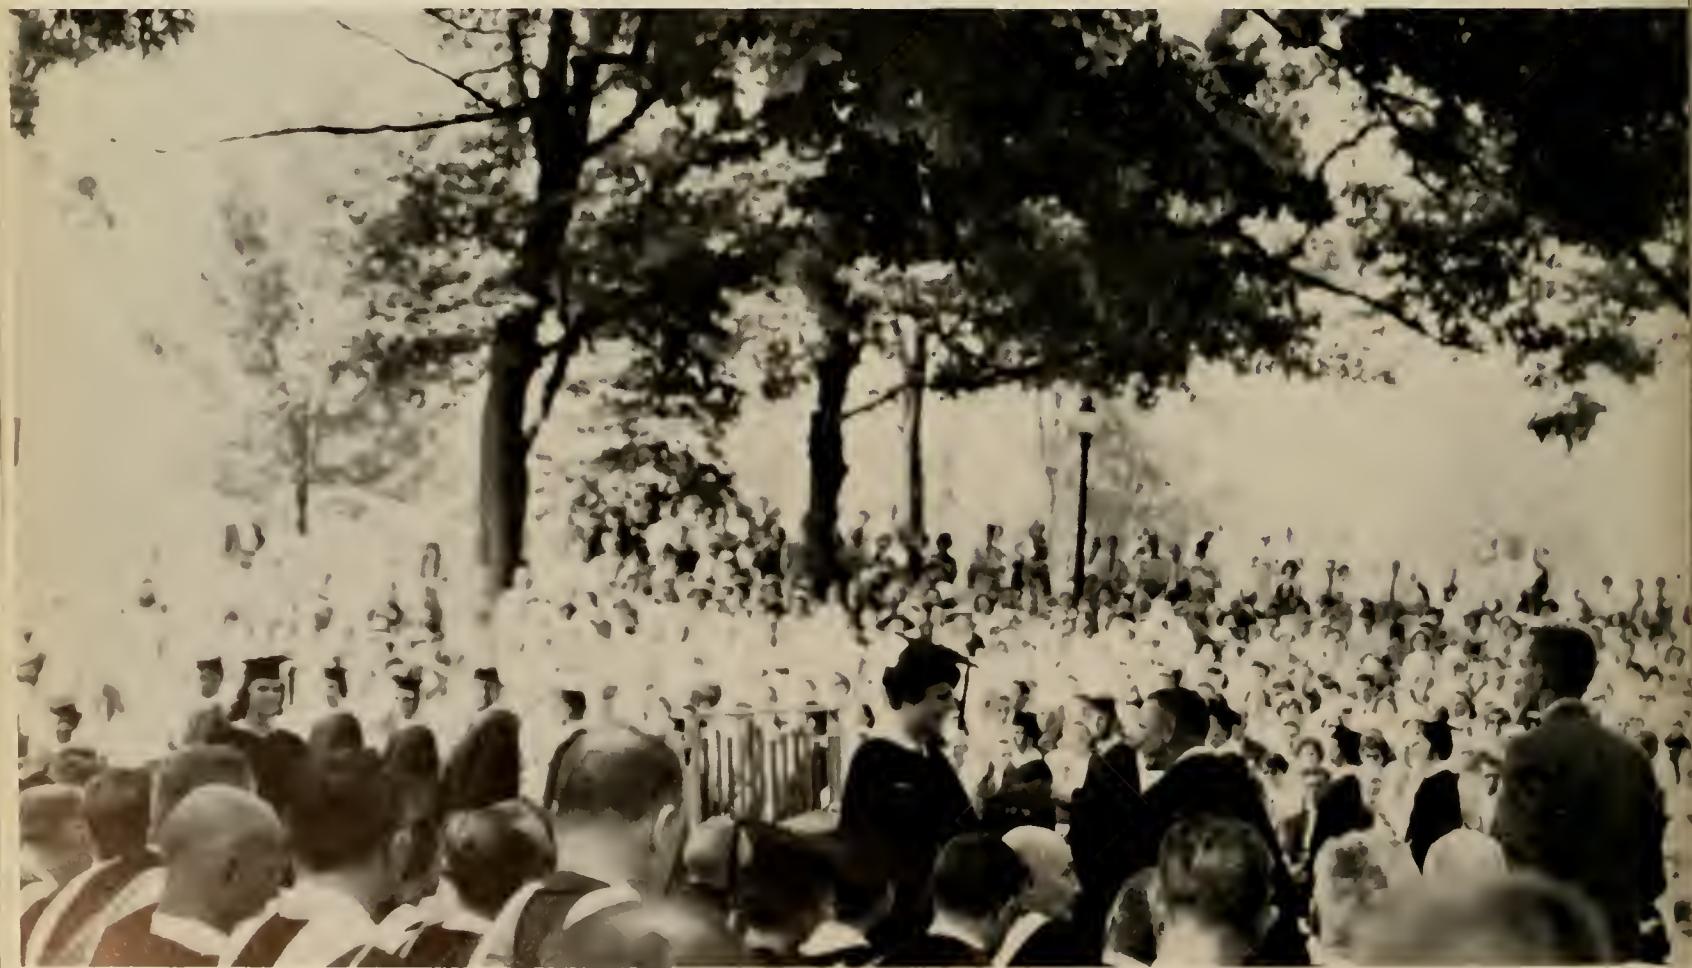

Many couples danced while others sampled the cakes and punch.

Four years ago we entered as freshmen . . . through toil, hard work, and faith . . . we stand about to graduate.

A few more steps . . . to receive the coveted college degree . . . and the door to the future opens.

Members of Towson's faculty listen attentively as Dr. Hawkins confers the degree of Bachelor of Science upon the Seniors.

Dr. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippines Ambassador to the United States, speaks to the graduating class on the importance of the United States' position in the world today.

As the degree is conferred, the Seniors move their tassels from the right to the left side of their mortar boards.

The Glee Club helps to open the Commencement exercises with the Lord's Prayer.

The orchestra prepares to play "Pomp and Circumstance" as the Seniors line up in the background.

Mr. Bollinger directs the orchestra as they play the first strains of "Pomp and Circumstance."

"I wonder when Mommy will get her diploma."

Every year special awards are made at graduation. This year, the Pearl Blood Award of a book for the Senior with the highest average in six or more geography courses went to Mrs. Peggy Gallagher; the National Council for Geographic Education Certificate given to the outstanding geography major went to Miss Betty Grisinger; and the Mary Hutson Scarborough award of $50.00 given to a Senior showing the best aptitude as an elementary school mathematics teacher went to Mrs. Claire Velie Griffin.

The faculty stands as the "Alma Mater" is played.

Two by two the seniors walk to receive their diplomas. Happy, stern, and yet glad college will soon be over.

Graduation, the day long to be remembered, took four years of preparation and lasted only an hour.

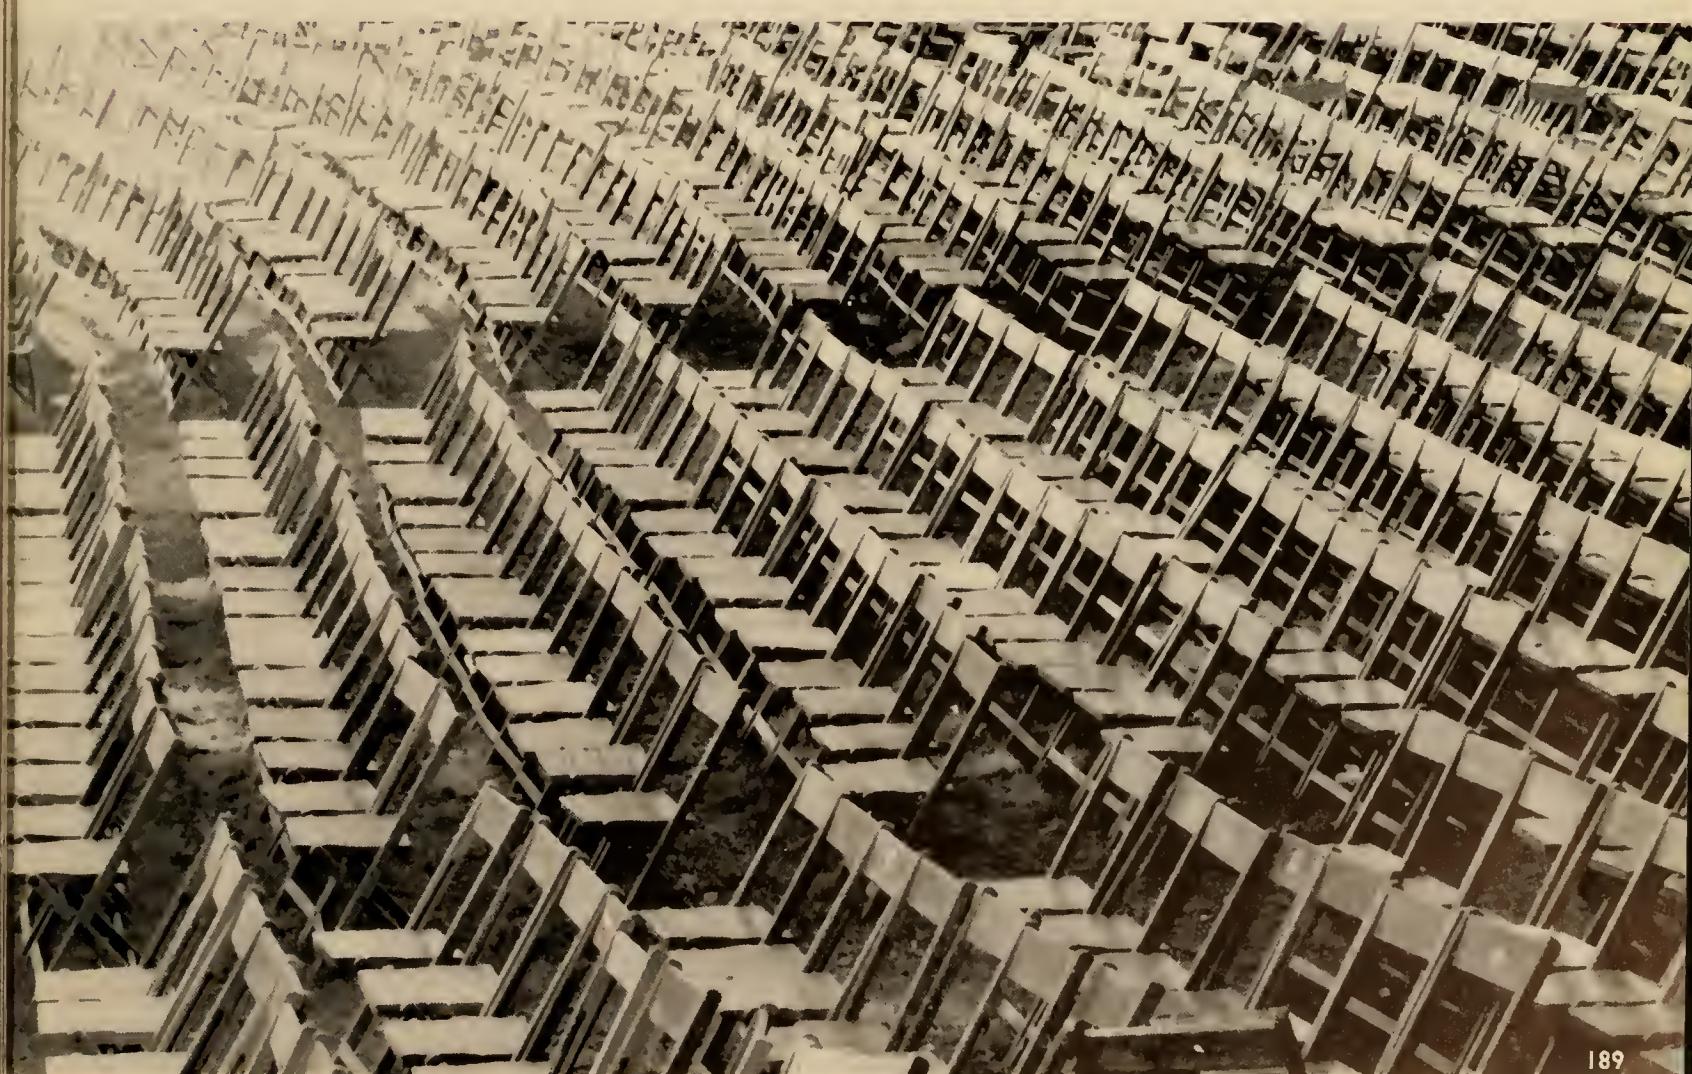

A shirtsleeve crowd of over one thousand people watched graduation on a hot, but sunny Sunday.

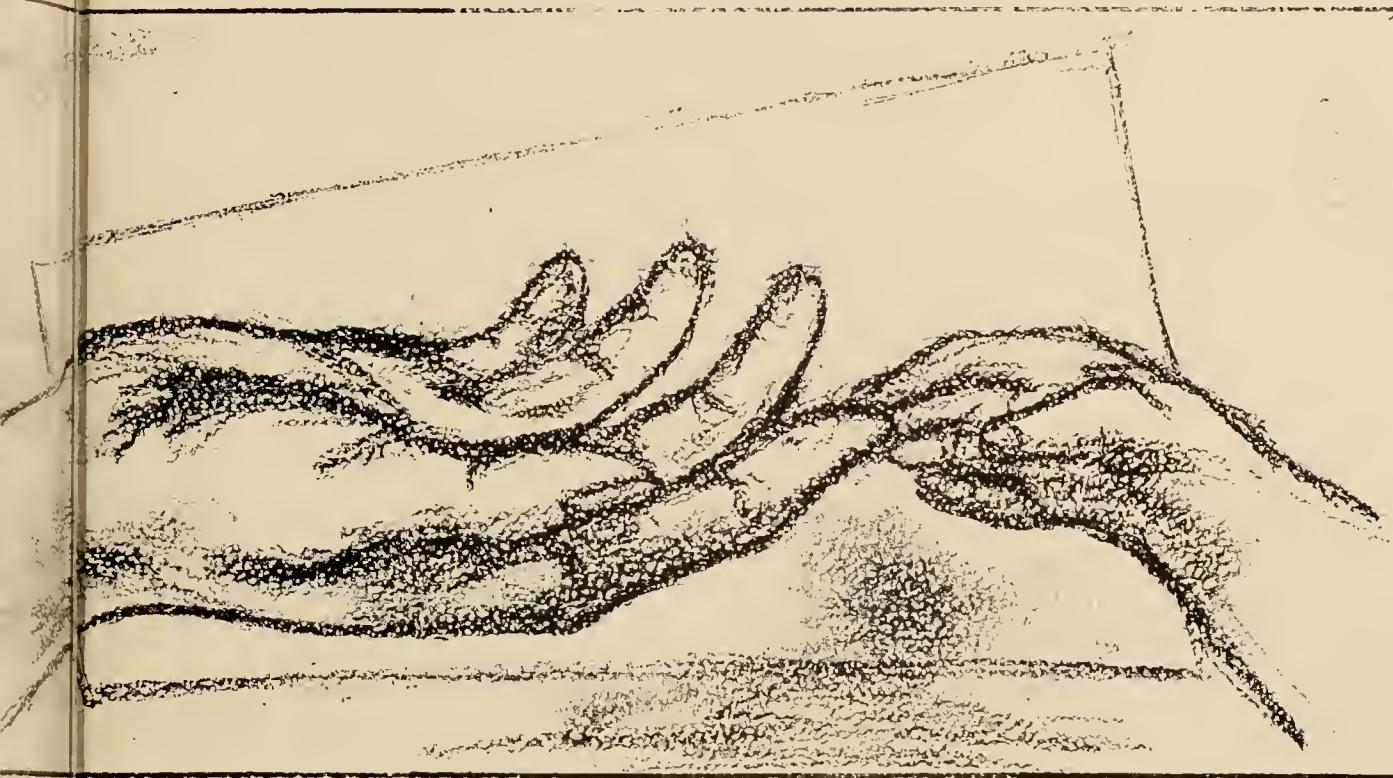

At the end of the long line of Seniors comes the Junior College graduates in the gray gowns of the Associated Arts degree.

Gone are the graduates . . .
